Time: Half day

Transportation: Car

Marble Mountain

The central city of Danang has a mountain of marble and limestone rock group known as the marble mountains. This group of 5 mountains, whose names represent the 5 elements, stands very close to the line of coast of Danang, in the center of Vietnam. 1

Popular place for spiritual retreat and pilgrimage, is composed of several pagodas Buddhist, remnants of the Champa civilization and caves inside the mountains, natural caves formed by erosion, water and the passage of time. Mountain Thuy Son is the largest mountain group comprising marble mountains of Da Nang, with several caves, caverns, pagodas and 2 viewpoints with some spectacular views of Danang city and the coast with the sea in the background.

Monkey Mountain

Away from the city center 10 km to the northeast, with the height of 693m above sea level, Son Tra Peninsula is a nature conservation area and rich diversity. It is famous as home to unique floral with many rare animals such as deer, monkeys, gibbons, orangutans, monkey rub the patch, red chicken. What remains of the American military presence are a couple of radar domes (still used by the Vietnamese military and a no-go for tourists) next to a helicopter pad. 2

Linh Ung, a colossal new Buddha statue positioned on a lotus-shaped platform that looks south to Danang city

Cham Museum 3

The Museum's first building was opened in 1919, but many Cham sculptures collected in Da Nang, Quang Nam and elsewhere were brought to the site over the preceding twenty years. The collection was begun by French archaeologists and experts from L'École Française d'Extrême Orient (EFEO). Some artefacts were sent to Paris and others to the Ha Noi and Sai Gon (now Ho Chi Minh City) museums, but many typical objects were left in Tourane (now Da Nang)
